

Andrew Brough

Director - Aerospace and Defence
Siemens Advanta

Andrew is a Director in Siemens Advanta's aerospace and defence practice. Siemens Advanta offers consulting solutions and services that support clients in their digital and sustainability transformations, simplifying processes through technology. Siemens Advanta leverage the expertise and experience from the whole of Siemens to advance digitalisation and redefine industries.

Andrew began his career at Babcock International, working across the business to drive improved performance across multiple MoD programmes. Following Babcock Andrew joined management consultancy Vendigital, acquired by Siemens Advanta in 2023, helping clients from across the aerospace and defence sector improve operational excellence using advanced analytics and data as well as practical support to help organisations achieve real benefits. In addition to this, Andrew has led multiple projects in conjunction with ADS and the DBT to diagnose the health of the UK supply chain and formulate new approaches to strengthen the sector.