

Rob is a MAA Director and also Chair of the MAA Business Development Group

Rob has 27 years' experience, with over 20 years in the global aerospace industry, spanning senior roles in engineering, operations and business development. He has been active within the MAA for many years and his combined technical and commercial expertise will be invaluable as we explore the future of aerospace as the industry undertakes period of change and growth.