

Elizabeth Williams is a commercial lawyer who helps clients to deliver complex projects (including PFI and/or PPP) across a range of sectors including aerospace and defence, technology and infrastructure. As part of her work in the defence sector, she is a specialist in the Defence Reform Act 2014.

Elizabeth specialises in providing advice to public authorities and private sector clients on PFI/PPP projects and other complex commercial and commercial outsourcing contracts. She has excellent organisational skills and strong experience of negotiating multi-party negotiations and managing complex contract completions. She helps clients to structure their projects in a way to minimise the risks and achieve their objectives, whether that is cost saving, changing or acquiring services or transferring/mitigating risk.